LESS FINANCIAL AID IN ELECTIONS

Measure Directed Against Debauching of Suffrage Not Intended to Prohibit Aid.

CORPORATIONS ADVOCATE IT

Object to Being Held Up Every Four Years by National Committee.

(From Gur Regular Correspondent)*WASHINGTON, June 13.-The campaign politicians who enjoy handling money in election years are plainly worried. They realize that the coming Congressional campaign will have to be conducted with less mancial ways and means than in the last dozen campaigns, which about covers the period of large contributions to national and Congresgional committees.

sional committees.

The first measure directed against the debauchery of suffrage through the use of money was not intended to prohibit campaign contributions, but to make public the names of contributors and to give publicity also to the use made of the money contributed. This was the principle of the McCall bill, which has been under consideration by the House Committee on Election of President, Vice-President and Representatives in Congress.

dent, Vice-President and Representatives in Congress.

This was the measure which emanated from the National Publicity Bill Organization, of which Mr. Perry Belmont, of New York, is the president and to which belong many prominent men of both parties, some of whom are conspicuously identified with both National and Congressional Committees for both the Republicans and the Democrats.

Scary Proposition.

Scary Proposition.

The bill was considered for months. It was soon manifest that it would have trouble. The Republicans found it a scary proposition. They were exceedingly shy about it, and found all possible fault with it, as a thing that might be evaded. Thereupon, Mr. Rücker, of Missouri, asked and was given opportunity, which at loast served the end of delay for the Republicans, to prepare a measure which would nicet objections and at the same time preserve the principle of publicity, to which the Republican members professed themselves agreeable.

members professed themselves agreeable.

When Mr. Rucker got his bill ready, they found it as objectionable as the original measure. They voted it out of the way, with the assurance that they would have a bill which would answer all desirable requirements. The remponafter considerable delay, Chairman Gaines came forward with a bill. Instead of confining publicity to national ard congressional committees, if provided for publicity of money contributed for all persons voted for at both Stafe and national eleptions having candidates for Federal office. The majority of the committee voted to report the Gaines bill.
Naturally, the Democrats opposed it. It involved interference with State dections, against which the publicity bill organization had definitely and strongly declared, leaving contributions for Stafe elections as a matter to be handled by the States, as had been done by Massachuselts and Missouri.

The minority members were given little opportunity to consider the bill. It was sent to the House calendar, where it is likely to remain undisturbed at this session at least, unless it gets to the floor through a rule providing for its consideration. The Democrats would oppose consideration except they be permitted to propose amendments, one of which would certainly strike out every part involving a State election. It is not now believed that any effort will be made on this line in the House by the Republicans until after the November elections. The impression made by the Gaines bill among the friends of national and congressional campaign publicity is that his measure was intended to make the propvisions for publicity of all contributions for the election of all officers, from President down to constable.

But the fight for lesislation to regulate and make giothe the use of money in When Mr. Rucker got his bill ready, ident down to constable.

But the fight for legislation to regulate and make yibho the use of money in national and congressional campaigns is national and congressional campaigns is by no means ended. It will be renewed at the next session. It is quite probable that Speaker Cannon, who is all-powerful when it comes to indicating what he will allow to be considered by the House, has given word that there is no chance for any publicity bill at this stage of the proceedings. The House is at the mercy of the Speaker and his political licuterants of the Rules Committee.

money to campaign funds has crented an unhappy feeling in Republican House circles. The Senate passed the bill without a murmur of adverse debate, and coming thus to the House, the Republicans are placed in a predicament from which all the partisan ingenuity of Speaker Cannon and his Rules Committee cannot extricate them. It is believed they will not dare to oppose the bill.

The Tillman bill makes it unlawful for any national bank or any corporation organized by authority of any laws of Congress to make a mone contributing in connection with any electing to any fallical office; it goes further, making a unit wful for any corporation whatever, whether incorporated by act of Congress or not, to contribute to a campaign fund in a presidential or congressional lace. or not, to contribute to a camping tune in a presidential or congressional Lieution. The penalty is that corporations which violate this provision shall be fined not exceeding $5,000 and every officer or director of a corporation who shall consent to any such contribution shall be fined not to exceed $1,000.

See Hope of Relief.

It is worthy of note that among the most ardent advocates of this measure are the corporation people themselves, especially those who have contributed especially those who have contributed most in recent campaigns, and about whose transactions there have recently heen most sensational disclosures and exposures. The stockholders of these corporations have unitedly moved against being held up for campaign funds.

The Democrats are heartify supporting the measure. The corporations in the list campaign gave the Democrats nothing, it was the Cortelyou national committee which successfully levied large assessments upon the corporations, and now it is the corporations themselves which, under the guise of respect for public sentiment, and certainly for their own protection, who are most argently insistent upon legislative relief in the passage of the Tillman bill.

Property Loss of a Million Dollars and Three Lives Sacrificed—Heroic Work Prevents The Spread of the Flames.

(By Associated Press.)
BALTIMORE, June 18.—The greatest fire since the conflagration of 1904, involving a property loss of about $1,000,000 and the sacrifice of three lives, occurred at an early hour this morning on the waterfront.

For a time the entire harbor front was threatened with destruction on the north side, the flames being with difficulty kept within the confines of the wharf of the Marchants' and Minera' Transportation Company, and on the south side a stubborn battle being fought to prevent a wholesale destruction of property by fire spread from the steamship Essex and six barges, which were burned.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 13.—The Senate adopted without division the conference report on the statchood bill at 6:20 o'clock this evening. The report was debated by Senators Faraker, Balley, Patterson, Money, DuBois, Morgan, Stene, McCumber and others. Several Denic cratic sancters, intimated that the conference report of the republicant party, and Mr. Money declared that such was the intent, and he charged, further, that the legislative is influenced by sectionalism. He develored that such was the intent, and in all the quantities of manhood to five Eastern men.

Senator DuBois announced his intention to vote against the acceptance of the report, because of omission of the anti-polygamy provision inserted by the Senate, and in doing so he took occasion to review his own political experience in dealing with the Mormons, saying that he knew that his stand on the question would result in his enforced retirement from the Senate.

The Senate also listened, during the day, to an argument by Senator Millard in opposition to the sea level Panama Canal bill, and also to further debate on the Lake Erle and Olio River Canal bill, which was not acted upon.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—There was a round of applaus from both sides of the chamber when Mr. Hamilten, of Michigan responded to the House to-day that the conferces on Statehood had reached as agreement and asked that it be printed in the reached.

The day was spent on the sundry civil appropriation bill, and with the exception of an hour occupied in considering the question of the abolishment of the office of Receivers of Land Offices, which proposed abolishment the House refused to sanction. The entire day was taken up with the consideration of appropriations for the United States Geological Survey, members of the appropriations committee being exceedingly severe in their condemnation of the methods used by officials of the survey to secure increased sums for the various branches of the survey.

The House concurred in the Senate amendments to the bills to erect a monument at King's Mountain battle-field in North Carolina, and to transfer Clinton county, Iowa, from the northern to the southern judicial district of that State.

The House also sent to conference the bill providing for the sub-division of lands entered under the reclamation act. Secretary of State J. Bryan Grimes, to Mr. James Gordon Hackett, of Wilker-boro, chairman of the board of directors

Colonel George C. Cabell, the orator of the occasion, was introduced by Chairman Cole, and his oration was one of the most eloquent ever heard in the college. In his opening remarks he gave as his theme, "Where Am I At?"—a quotation taken from the speech of a congressman who, hoing embarrassed by innay interruptions, turned to the Speaker and uttered the above quoted words."
The orator at times ascended into such flights of eloquence as are seldom heard, and many times tears were brought to the eyes of the audienc.

He took the ground that the South, and Virginia particularly, were rapidly coming to the front in political matters, and predicted an early return to the sway formerly exercised in government affairs by Virginia's sons.

As he took his soat, amid much applause, the old walls were made to echo and re-cho with college yells of students who had gathered in a circle in the center of the room.

After the exercises the Alunni Association proceeded to another room, where the annual banquet was held and the festivities were kept up until a late hour.
